Breathitt Announcements.
We are authorized to announce B. M. COMBS a candidate for the office of Surveyor of Breathitt county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Whatever may be said against the Board of Equalization, Auditor Fayette Hewitt, who should have more practical experience in the duties pertaining to it than any one else in this Commonwealth, in his annual report says:

"The last Legislature created a State Board of Equalization, whose duty it is to equalize the burdens of taxation as between counties. This Board, after having found from the returns of the assessors, the gross valuation of all property within the State, is directed to ascertain the proportion which the assessed value bears to a fair cash value; the per centum thus obtained is taken as a State average, and those counties showing a higher valuation are reduced to this average per centum, while those falling below it are necessarily raised to it. The property is considered in three classes: lands, town lots, and personal property. By the action of the Court of Appeals, in the case of Goodloe against Auditor, all monies in hand or in bank stand as assessed.

"In estimating the relation of the assessed values to cash values, the Board depends upon information obtained from officials and citizens of various counties. In the value of lands and town lots, they have before them the transcripts furnished by the county clerks, of all sales made during the year. The proceedings of the Board for the years 1884 and 1885 are before you.

"The most careful examination of the various tables so found in the Auditor's Reports from year to year, wherein are set forth the assessed values of the various kinds of property in the respective counties, will show great necessity for some such equalization. When we find a county, which is in no wise distinguished for the fertility of its soil, and having no highways of commerce, assessed at a greater valuation than another county of greater area, of at least equal fertility and having great lengths of railroads and turnpikes, we know there is need of equalization. When we find the cattle of one county assessed at less than two dollars per head, and those of another county, which is well known to contain the same grade of cattle, assessed at four or five dollars per head, we know there is need of equalization. When we find the horses, mules, and cattle, of a county which is noted throughout the country for its high grades, assessed at 30 or 40 per cent. less than those of a county within whose borders are to be found only the commoner class of stock, we know there is need of equalization. Need of equalization which can not be effected at the hands of the assessors, and can only be provided by some such agency as this Board."

The State Auditor's report shows a deficit of $293,185.52, notwithstanding there was received $512,500 derived from the sale of bonds in New York a few months ago. The Auditor estimates the deficit of the coming year will be $196,885.52. The rate of taxation was increased five cents on the $100, which yielded an increase of revenue of $160,000. But the Legislature which made this increase recklessly made appropriations amounting to more than $284,000. The result of such legislation might have been foreseen—Bourbon News.

How could it be otherwise, when the Legislature remained in session 135 days recklessly wasting our money in passing local appropriation bills, at an expense of nearly $1,500 per day, when it should have adjourned at the expiration of 60 days, the constitutional limit of a session.

Senator Taulbee, the good-natured Senator from Morgan, is the first man to jump on the Board of Equalization, he having asked leave yesterday (4th inst.) to bring in a bill to repeal the act under which the board was created. Ex-Senator Haggard, who stood sponsor for the bill two years ago, will be heard from by the committee to which Mr. Taulbee's bill is referred.—Courier-Journal.

From the Lone Star State.
Editor of THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD:
McLENDON, TEXAS, Dec. 31, 1885.

DEAR SIR: Enclosed please find $1.00 for a year's subscription to your paper. I am glad to know you are still prospering with your dear old Herald. Although away here in Texas, I find my heart still wandering back to the familiar scenes of my dear native land, and often, when comparing it with other places I have found in my wanderings, it is always to me the garden spot of the world. We are having beautiful weather here in Texas now. There is no snow yet, and but little rain. The thermometer stood about 80° on the 24th and 25th of December. I do not know when I will return, as I am thinking of making Texas my home, but I would be glad to meet any of my Kentucky friends. I expect you have had joyous sleigh-rides there, while we have had warm, pleasant weather here.

The crops are all gathered and farmers are preparing for another crop. I will close, hoping you all have enjoyed a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year. Yours Respectfully,
JOHN W. McCLAIN.

Deaths in Dakota.
TOWLE, DAKOTA, Dec. 28, 1885.
Editor of THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD:
DEAR SIR: We have been very appreciably disappointed, for since the little flurry of winter about the first of the month, it has been warm and nice, melted off all the snow, and is now warm enough to start without a coat on. In fact we have seen as warm a winter, so far, since I have been in the West. We have had a very dry fall; lakes and creeks are dry that I never knew dry before. It makes stock water a little scarce, but beyond that it makes no inconvenience. This country will stand a great deal of dry weather. In fact, it has been said, upon good authority, that there have been crops planted and matured without rain on them. The health of the country is good. We had a very pleasant Christmas, and the weather now looks more like spring than winter. Happy New Year to you, and success to THE HERALD.

Yours Truly,
CALEB MAY.

Senator Dixon's High License Bill.
[Louisville Truth.]

One of the most important questions that will occupy the present Legislature is that of high license for saloons. Senator Dixon, of Henderson and Union, has spent some months making a study of the high license laws and the results of their operations in all the high license States. He has prepared a bill which resembles the Harper Law of Illinois and which will undoubtedly pass unless some other bill to the same effect is preferred. Senator Dixon's bill imposes a State license of $600 upon the sale of spirituous liquors and $150 upon beer. It also makes it obligatory upon all cities and towns to impose a local license of $250 and $100 respectively. This would increase the license on spirits to $750, and on beer and wine to $250, or in the aggregate make the general license nearly three times as great as at present. There is little doubt that a high license bill will pass. "Anybody," said Senator Dixon, recently, "who votes in the Legislature, and observes how easily the prohibition element carried all the local prohibitory legislation it wanted, can not doubt that there will be in the present body a strong element determined to bring about some sort of legislation looking toward a stricter regulation of the liquor traffic. I am against prohibition myself, but I think a high license will be a great public benefit, and it will satisfy the public. Indeed, it will satisfy the main body of those who have become prohibitionists because the liquor traffic has not been properly regulated and taxed." The new bill ought to make the penalty of keeping a tippling house larger. It is now only $60, and many a man will take the chances of prosecution rather than pay $750 when he can only be fined $60.

Bloody Christmas.
[Licking Valley Scourer.]

• • • The daily press teems with accounts of murders and attempted murders, all traceable, directly or indirectly, to two causes—immoderate drinking and carrying concealed deadly weapons. How are these two evils to be arrested? This question appeals to Kentucky statesmen for solution, and it is to be hoped that our solons now in session at Frankfort will respond to it in a manner that will satisfy the public demand, and crush the two evils out forever. Let pistols be taxed out of existence. Tax the wholesale and retail dealer in pistols and cartridges in such sums that they can't afford to pay it. Tax the owner of a pistol in such an amount that he can not afford to keep it. Punish the party found with one concealed on his person, with stripes on the bare back, not exceeding thirty-nine for the first offense, and confinement not less than one nor more than five years in the penitentiary for the second offense, and it will stop. There is no use of giving sugar coated treatment to this offense, it must be punished as a heinous crime against society in order to arrest it. Let the axe be laid at the root of the tree, and this tide of blood stopped. Draw the ropes closer about the rascal, and render him infamous when convicted of debauching our young men, or better still, crush the use of it in the State. Take away from corporations and courts the right to license crime.

Kentucky Exhibit.

[New Orleans Times Democrat.]
There is no display in the Government Building of greater intrinsic merit than that of Kentucky. Its mineral, and agricultural wealth, as manifested by the exhibit Col. Smith has made, creates an impression upon capitalists and immigrants, and millions in the way of investment ought to follow. Her exhibit represents more than fifty varieties, embracing some of the large specimens. Her marble, in quantity and character, is a revelation even to the denizens of the Bluegrass country. Her hemp exhibit is perhaps the best and largest here. Her iron ores and timbers would be the pride of any State. This exhibit was by this Exposition in 1884, by Col. Smith as late as November last, hence it is impossible to realize how the limited means afforded by his State have enabled him to do it. Many States would be unable to duplicate it after an expenditure of thousands of dollars, and Kentuckians have reason to pride themselves on a State that possesses such wonderful resources.

The Beauty of Protection.
[Oakland (Cal.) Times.]

Eight years ago the exports of wheat from India amounted to $9,500,000. In 1882 they had increased to nearly $44,000,000 and the crop last year is said to equal that of the United States. This change in India has been brought about within the past ten years, and from present indications American wheat will soon have a competitor it will not know what to do with. This great wheat industry in India has been started and worked up by England, that she might have a market for her goods where she would not be compelled to pay enormous tariffs on them. And yet probably three-fourths of our farmers in this country who depend on their wheat will fight against tariff reform because they are republicans, and their party has pledged itself to the support of the protection, so called, which protects the iron-monger of Pennsylvania and the factory-men of New England, while the farmer-dupes go unprotected, and will soon be left without any market, because of the policy they are helping to maintain.

Which is the Best?

While in London, England, recently Col. A. M. Swope had a suit of clothes made, which cost him twenty-one dollars. It is an excellent suit, and anywhere in America the same suit would have cost from sixty to seventy-five dollars. America glories in a protective tariff, while England enjoys free trade. Which is the system for the people? Which the better for the manufacturer? The American system protects the manufacturer, the English system the people. If the theory that the end of good government is to do the greatest good to the greatest number of people, is correct, the English system is the correct one. Are there more manufacturers than non-manufacturers?

The House Committee.
[Louisville Commercial.]

So long as the Legislature is occupied with petty local bills, it matters little who are members or who head the committees. The present session having begun with a promise of some important work, it may be of interest to consider who are in a position to become leaders. The House committee, named yesterday, are headed generally by men of real ability. That on revenue and taxation is headed by William L. Jackson, Jr., who has in charge already a comprehensive scheme of reform for the revenue laws; that on the judiciary by Ignatius A. Spalding, probably the ablest of public men in a large section of western Kentucky; that on ways and means by Bernard A. Neale, whose recent editorial work on the Mayfield Monitor shows the excellence of his views upon State affairs; upon criminal laws by Phil B. Thompson, Sr., whose legal practice and general interest in public matters qualifies him well; that upon corporate institutions (which will scan many bills for charters) by Richard A. Jones, an experienced member, who will be aided by several warm opponents of trivial local legislation; that on railroads, by James H. Mulligan; that on General Statutes by Harvey Myers, and that on Codes of Practice, by William C. Owens. It is too early to predict what these gentlemen will accomplish, but there is reason for satisfaction at the very beginning of the session, that so much capacity and intelligence are displayed at the heads of the important committees.

Married Her Own Son.
[Exchange.]

Mrs. Samantha Goodloe, residing near Madison Square, New York City, about three years ago married her own son. The discovery was recently made. They have left city and efforts are being made to hush up the matter. Mrs. Goodloe married Amasa Turner, of Lowell Mass., twenty years ago. She was sixteen years old. Shortly afterwards a son was born. Mrs. Turner fell into bad habits and her husband left her taking the boy. He went to San Francisco, was divorced, assumed a fortune and died leaving his son $500,000. Mrs. Turner, meantime, married Sylvester Goodloe, at Camden, N. J., lived with him five years when he died leaving her his fortune. She came to New York and took up her residence near Madison Square, where most of her time was spent with young men. After the death of his father in San Francisco, the son, Harrison Turner, came to New York, met Mrs. Goodloe, who was infatuated with him, and the two were married. Recently he went to San Francisco to attend to business, and brought back with him some of his father's papers bearing on the divorce. The mother saw them and the whole secret was revealed. She had married her son.

Pres. Taulbee's Bill.
[Caldwell Democrat.]

Congressman Taulbee, of the Tenth District of Kentucky, in the introduction of his bill to create a new United States Federal Court District in Kentucky, puts himself on record as opposed to the reduction of the enormous tariff tax that the people are now paying; and in doing so he opposes the recommendations of the President, and the declarations of his party in 1884. The passage of his bill would necessitate the appointment of another Judge, District Attorney, Marshal, Clerk, and a large appropriation for a new court house building, all of which must be paid by the people. There is no necessity for dividing Kentucky into two districts. The business in the Federal Court does not keep one Judge employed half the time, and it is growing less each year. In his campaign last year Mr. Taulbee was an advocate of reform and economy in the administration of public affairs. Why this change? We can say to Mr. Taulbee that his constituents are not willing to be taxed a few hundred thousand dollars simply to create a court to furnish four men each an office, especially when it is as useless as the fifth wheel to a wagon.

Breen's Liniment is certainly the best combination of remedies for corns, neuralgias, pains in the back and side, etc., ever produced.

FOR SEVEN YEARS.

Mr. W. L. Black, the subject of the above sketch, with the Evening Chronicle, St. Louis, Mo., in answer to the inquiry of a reporter, said: "For seven years I had been ailing with catarrh, and during that time have been treated by six eminent physicians without success. Some doctors told me I had consumption. For the past three years I had a continual discharge of mucous droppings in the throat, a cough and pain across my forehead. Added to that was loss of memory, voice, appetite, roaring in the ears, and a general feeling of wretchedness. About five months ago I consulted Dr. Turner. To-day I am as well as ever, have gained twenty pounds, and don't detect a trace of my old trouble. Yes, sir, I would be pleased to answer, by letter, any person suffering from that dread disease."

Louis Turner, M. D., has offices at 819 Washington St., St. Louis, Mo., and has, in private and hospital practice of over thirty years, treated with wonderful success all curable cases. Treatment of deformities and surgery a specialty. NOT NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS. By my original system of consultation the patient can be cured of all Diseases of the Blood, Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Heart, Nervous System, Debility, and all diseases peculiar to the sexes.
